Dear Mr Weisberg,

I shall come right to the point of my letter. After reading your letter to the Editor, "JFK Assassination", it brought back to my mind again something that seemed to bother my late husband, who passed away Sept. 4, 1982 at Veterans Hospital in Washington, D.C.

On the day of the President's Assassination my husband heard the famous Mr. Eric Seneroid say that "It would be many, many, years before the real truth could be told about President Kennedy's death, if it were told there would be surely be a revolution in this Country". For almost twenty years my husband tried to figure out what he had meant. He came up with many answers that could have been the truth, millions must have heard these remarks, and now I am trying to figure out what they meant. It could have meant, same thing or nothing, there was complete confusion that day. Sir, I do write this letter in confidence. Maybe you could check this out. I wish you and your loved ones a merry Christmas and may the new year bring out the real truth for you and all Americans - may God Bless.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Geo. A. Bowring
